

How Many Students Realize the Real Meaning of Our Alma Mater?

Students at Covina take pride in their school spirit, band and athletic teams. The pride that we of Covina High feel goes deeper than that of appreciation. It is the kind of pride that isn't built in a few years; it is the kind that is built with year after year of intense loyalty and good sportsmanship.

COVINA HIGH, THE BEST!

"Here' to our dear Covina High."

The first line of our Alma Mater shows the pride and interest the students take in the school, the deep interest they have in Covina.

"Here's to the Red and White"

Red and white are the standards for our school spirit. Spirit makes teams like last year's championship team, teams that didn't win every game but fought even harder, and every team since Covina began. It is school spirit that makes the great teams of Covina. Pride and determination is behind every team that is from Covina.

"Here's to the boys who won the game,

Who fought with all their might."

Covina wins, not always, but consistently. Covina's teams give every ounce of strength they have till the end. Always doing their best, Covina has built an admirable reputation, and is known for clean and hard fought games.

"Here's to the girls forever true,
True as the stars above."

The girls of Covina make the school spirit. The girls back the teams, loyally and earnestly. Every game that is played is fought hard because of the loyal support of the girls.

"Here's to our dear Covina High,
Here's to the school we love."

The Administration building with its two stories and huge front steps; the Science Hall with its view from the top floor; the good old cafeteria, with or without enough chairs; the funny shaped library; the Music Hall; the ew Homemaking buildings! the good old bus garage; the gym with all the scuff marks on the floor; the worn out football field, with the grand old stadium. All of these buildings plus the kids that make Covina what it is, mold together the greatest school spirit around.

Yes, Covina has come far since the days it began. But Covina won't stop now. The ball is rolling, every year it goes faster. Win or lose, Covina will keep fighting for the top. With the whole Student Body behind it, Covina can get there.

Here's to Covina . . . always as loyal and determined and as proud as possible.

Here's to Covina . . . the student body!
